MISCELLANEOUS.

The Sun,

NEW YORK, 1882.

THE SUN for 1882 will make its fifteenth annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always, for all, big and little, mean and gracious, contented and unhappy, Republican and Democratic, depraved and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. The SUN'S light is for mankind and womankind of every sort; but its genial warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfort on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked.

The SUN of 1868 was a newspaper of a new kind. It discarded many of the forms, and a multitude of the superfluous words and phrases of ancient journalism. It undertook to report in a fresh, succinct, unconventional way all the news of the world, omitting no event of human interest, and commenting upon affairs with the fearlessness of absolute independence. The success of this experiment was the success of the SUN. It effected a permanent change in the style of American newspapers. Every important journal established in this country in the dozen years past has been modeled after the SUN. Every important journal already existing has been modified and bettered by the force of the SUN'S example.

The SUN of 1882 will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and interesting newspaper.

By a liberal use of the means which an abundant prosperity affords, we shall make it better than ever before.

We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with the SUN. Whenever anything happens worth reporting we get the particulars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or in Bokhara.

In politics we have decided opinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and events. That habit is the only secret of the SUN'S political course.

The WEEKLY SUN gathers into eight pages the best matter of the seven daily issues. An Agricultural Department of unequalled merit, full market reports, and a liberal proportion of literary, scientific and domestic intelligence complete the WEEKLY SUN and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed.

Who does not know and read and like the SUNDAY SUN, each number of which is a Golconda of interesting literature with the best poetry of the day, prose every line worth reading, news, humor—matter enough to fill a good sized book, and infinitely more varied and entertaining than any book, big or little?

If our idea of what a newspaper should be pleases you, send for the SUN.

Our terms are as follows:

For the daily SUN, a four-page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, post paid, is 55 cents a month, $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents per month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of the SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words, among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvelous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equaled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their painful effects, that is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its early use in sudden attacks.

DEWITTS' GREEN HOUSE.

WE now offer to our customers of Bristol and vicinity the largest stock of plants for fall and winter culture we have ever had. Since July 1st we have built a large Rose and Smilax house, each 120 feet by 27, and 18 feet respectively, and are now prepared to execute double the amount of work, with the same dispatch and satisfaction that has always characterised this establishment. We cut 2,500 Rose Buds a week, many of them Marechal Niels, Pearls, Cornelia-Cooks and Niphetos. Other desirable cut flowers in proportion. Rose Buches, Pinks, Bouvardias, including the new double white Bouvardias, Heliotropes, Chrysanthemums, Cyclamen, etc. for window culture. We have the largest stock of double White Bouvardias in the State, having supplied many florists with their stock plants. All of the above we have by thousands. Designs in flowers and immortelles at short notice. A visit will repay for the trouble. If you don't see what you want, ask for it. DEWITTS' GREEN HOUSES, Pond Street.

PUBLIC SALE OF A VALUABLE

BUSINESS STAND

AND RESIDENCE.

I will offer at Public Sale, on TUESDAY, DEC. 20, my dwelling and business stand, located on the corner of Radcliffe and Dorrance streets, in Bristol, Pa. The lot fronts 20 feet on Radcliffe Street and extends back 215 feet to Cedar Street. The improvements consist of a three-story frame dwelling, containing a store room and eight living rooms, together with hall and bath room, the latter fitted up with all the modern conveniences; a store room with excellent outer cellar, carriage house and stable, coal bins, etc., and are all conveniently located. The improvements are all in complete repair, and conveniently arranged, and both store and dwelling is supplied with all necessary gas and water fixtures. The store has been in successful operation for over 20 years, and is as good a business stand as there is in the lower end of Bucks County. For full particulars call at the premises. Terms easy, sale positive, as I don't want the money. Sale to commence at 1 o'clock p. m.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

—"In the Inguidi," says M. Lenz in a recent communication to the French Geographical Society, "a region of sand dunes very difficult to cross, I observed a phenomenon which was as rare as it was interesting—resonant or musical sand. All at once one hears in the desert, issuing from a sand dune, a prolonged, smothered sound quite like the noise of a trumpet. It lasts for some seconds, and then stops, to resume itself in another direction. The phenomenon renders the traveler anxious. I suppose it proceeds from the friction against one another of the burning hot grains of quartz, which are simply laid one over the other and are always in motion."

—Despite the terrible force of the shock of the electric eel—a power equal to fifteen Leyden jars—it is preyed upon by a little parasitic fish, some two or three inches in length, which appears utterly oblivious of the shock.

—It has been calculated that the intestines of flies and other insects contain blood-vessels so minute that two hundred thousand of them placed together in a bundle would only equal a hair in size.

—It is learned from a private report than on the southern seaboard of the Chinese province of Kwangtung are found wild silkworms which feed on the camphor tree and whose silk is utilized in a singular manner. When full grown, the caterpillar is cut open and the silk extracted in a form much resembling catgut. This substance is subjected to a hardening process and made into fish-lines.

—"Gelatino-diaspon" is the name given to a new explosive, produced by M. Anders. It is composed of wood-cellulose and nitro-glycerine, is unaffected by cold, is not sensible to blows or shocks, and explodes only by a sudden increase of temperature to about 320 degrees Fahrenheit. It burns quietly when ignited in the open air, and is not affected by water.

—In Japan spiders interfere considerably with the telegraphic service by spinning long webs from the wires to the trees and to the earth, which, in wet weather, become good conductors of electricity, and carry off the current. Forces of men have to be employed to keep the lines clear, so great is this evil.

—The remarkable discoveries of Jenner, Pasteur, and others, showing that some of the most fatal virulent diseases may be rendered comparatively harmless by inocculation with a weakened virus, have led to the suggestion of the possibility of combatting tuberculosis in the same manner. It is now quite generally believed that this disease, like small pox, chicken cholera and anthrax, is due to the very rapid increase of certain minute organisms in the body, and it seems reasonable to hope that inoculation with its weakened germs may produce as favorable results as have been achieved in the case of the other maladies. This is an important problem for science to solve.

—It is calculated that the amount of force daily expended by an adult weighing 150 pounds in the performance of the ordinary work of the body would raise 3400 tons one foot, if applied mechanically.

—At the National Industrial Exhibition in Milan has been exhibited an electrical voting apparatus, desgned by Signor Roncelli, a member of the Italian Parliament. The idea is simply as follows: Each member of the house has in front of him a metal plate bearing his name. The plate is furnished with three metal buttons, marked respectively "Aye," "No," and "Abstain." This plate is in connection with a central printing apparatus, which prints in three separate columns the ayes, noes, and abstainers, according as the members depress their respective buttons. A fourth column marks the absentees. At the moment of recording each vote, a number corresponding with the number of the vote appears, so that the total may be seen at a glance. By this system, members can vote and keep their seats, a great saving of time being also effected.

—Prof. Raoul Pictet, of Geneva, is engaged in working out a problem in marine architecture, the proper solution of which he believes will effect a revolution in shipbuilding. His object of study has been the construction of a keel which shall cause the ship to glide over the water instead of pushing its way through it. The resistance of the water to the passage of a vessel is in this way reduced to a minimum. He is now experimenting with a keel upon this principle.

—A certain peculiar plant is known in New South Wales as the "shoeblack plant." The flowers contain a large proportion of a mucilaginous juice, which forms an excellent substitute for shoeblacking, producing a brilliant polish. This juice is used by Chinese ladies for dyeing the hair, and it is said that in Java the flowers are really used for blacking shoes.

Two cents stopped for two hours the running of the Sedansville street railway cars in Cincinnati. The company owning the line has been charging seven cents for a through fare—five cents to the Ninth District station, and two cents from there to the end, and the Sedansvilians have been dissatisfied thereat. On Thursday evening a councilman of the twenty-first ward, when asked for the second fare of two cents, refused to pay. The proprietors of the road had previously given the conductors orders to run in the cars if any such thing occurred, and, accordingly, when the cars reached the stables they were ordered in and held from six to eight o'clock.

NEW YORK LETTER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3, 1881.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—The week has been uneventful, unless a breach of promise case and a murder trial of exceptional interest (to the general public at least,) may have furnished something out of the ordinary. To the layman they may have developed singular phases of life, but to one who has had an experience of over twenty years in a great city, where every class and kind congregate, they are almost devoid of interest, because they are old, hackneyed and played out. They are in the old (and I may say stereotyped form); the old, old story over again, which teaches a lesson that is not heeded, and will be oft repeated to the end of time.

The plaintiff in the breach of promise case was Ada Ullman, a young, pretty and slender brunette, with a delicate outlined form, who is only 18 years old. The defendant, from whom she sought to recover $25,000, is Henry M. Myers, aged 21, who is in business with his father in Richmond, Va. The case came up in the U. S. District Court before Judge Wallace, and was managed with consumate ability by able counsel on both sides. Henry had met the winsome Ada at a ball. Her beauty of person and charms of manner captivated the ardent youth, and he was not slow to confess his love and to ask her hand in marriage. He was accepted. Love's young dream seemed to be realized. Gushing epistles passed between the lovers, in which the young man poured forth his soul in an unrestrained torrent of fond devotion, and all went merry as a marriage bell, until Henry's sister came on from Richmond to visit her brother's future bride. Then there was trouble, because the sister saw, or fancied she saw, something objectionable in Ida, which she promptly reported to "the old folks at home," and as a result Henry broke off the match. But Ada did not propose to get left, or at least her relatives didn't propose she should, and during the trial of the case, letters in which appeared such fond (?) expressions as "deary," "ducky," "goosie," and all such love-like (?) terms were introduced. The case is still on, and the result will be that Miss Ullman will get such a judgment that young Myers prospective profits in his father's firm will be considerably abridged, unless he hides his interest under the convenient cloak of somebody else.

The other trial is that of Mrs. Coleman for the murder of George Coles. Temporary insanity is the defence. A lame, impotent and unavailing one, in the opinion of those who have listened attentively to the testimony. Mrs. Coleman is a wife and mother. Coles was young and single. He may have erred. She certainly did, and when the full enormity of her guilt became known to her husband, she sought refuge in murder, and tried to vindicate herself by pleading all sorts of extenuating circumstances. If the case is decided in her favor (and I do not see how it can be) it will be because a woman's tears has warped a jury's judgment by melting their hearts.

Jennie Kimball, the actress and songstress, has been in jail for several days, at the instigation of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, because she would not produce Corinne, the "child actress," who is her adopted daughter, in court. Corinne is only ten years of age, and is pretty and attractive for one of her age. She can sing like a nightingale, and act like a veteran Thespian, and has earned a fortune for those who manage her. She has a maid at her command, and a carriage at her disposal, and her artistic graces, vocally and dramatically, have made her a conspicuous attraction throughout the country. She was to appear at a Concert Hall in this city, when "The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children" interfered. She was got out of the State instanter, and her adopted mother was locked up as her abductor in default of $10,000 bail, which she has thus far been unable to procure.

LAURENS.

A story which comes from Columbus, O., revives and modernizes the old tradition that Paganini once sold himself to the devil so as to be made the greatest violinist in the world. H. H. Heskett, a jeweller of Columbus, has for a quarter of a century been possessed of a desire to make a violin equal to those famous ones made by Stradivarius, who died in 1744, and with whom the secret of violin-making died. In 1878 Remenyi was in Columbus, and Heskett called on him with a violin he had made, which was pronounced very bad. Sixteen months later he took two more instruments to Remenyi, who seemed pleased with them. Last February, while playing in Des Moines, Remenyi received by express from the Columbus jeweller a magnificent violin. It was a new Stradivarius, with all the classical modelling, the inimitable curve and contour of the old master, and Remenyi uses it constantly for the following reason: It is said when he was locked up in his room at Des Moines he discovered a marvellous secret. It is nothing less than that the violin-maker of Columbus, after working and failing for twenty-five years, finally in despair sold himself to the devil for the skill to make the great violin. He bought the secret of Stradivarius with his soul. In two words, the devil is in Remenyi's new violin. That accounts for the manner (so goes the story) in which Remenyi treats his violin; sometimes when the devil is in good humor and sings divinely, Remenyi smiles right out on the stage; again, he shakes his head knowingly or cajolingly, of course to the devil in the box. Sometimes when the evil one becomes uncontrollable you can see a great frown on the artist's face; his eyes flash, he compresses his lips and lashes the devil with horse-hair until he fairly roars and screams.

TEMPERANCE TOPICS.

Over 5,000 Germans of Michigan petitioned the Legislature of that State for a prohibitory constitutional amendment.

The distillers and spirit-dealers will appear at the opening of Congress with bills which will help alcohol to flood the country.

The facilities for drunkenness and loaferism are so good at Newport that the officials in charge of the naval training school favor a removal for the sake of the boys' morals.

Pennsylvania spends in one year for liquor $152,663,495; for schools and school teaching, $5,863,945. There are engaged in liquor business 78,000 persons, and as school teachers 16,870.

The Great West says: "In the city of Denver, during the year 1880, the total income from the sale of boots and shoes, clothing, coal and the products of the bakeries amounted to $1,875,000.

"The income from the sale of liquor amounted to $2,000,000, or $125,000 more than was expended for the above necessaries of life.

"Two millions of dollars invested by the citizens of Denver in an enterprise which has produced at least seventy-five per cent. of all her crimes, caused a majority of her failures in business, destroyed hundreds of homes, and has not benefited a single individual except the liquor dealer."

The Liquor Dealers' and Manufacturers' Association of Illinois, with 400 delegates in attendance, last month adopted the following resolution: "Resolved, That the Board of Trustees be empowered, whenever in their opinion the time has arrived, to issue a call for a national convention of liquor dealers and manufacturers for the purpose of organizing a grand national organization; such convention to be held in the city of Chicago."

The Sentinel, a new temperance paper recently started in Meridian, Mississippi, in a recent editorial, says;

"The friends of temperance and reform may well take courage from the signs of the times, as it looks to the final abolition of whiskey, rum, gin and brandy from our land. One of these signs is the increased and increasing popularity of this movement with the people at large. Public feeling is against the sale of intoxicants as a beverage. Many who habitually drink even to drunkenness are feeling convinced of the necessity of some decided legislation to prevent this great destroyer of the souls and bodies of men. Most of our circuit judges and district attorneys are advocates of some more powerful means to save our land from this evil. And besides woman, God's best gift to man, is almost solidly for prohibition. Let temperance reform advocates take courage. We shall win if faithful."

Rev. Henry Clay Trumbull, editor of the Sunday-school Times, who has recently traveled considerably in Europe, Palestine, etc., has written an article entitled "Is Wine Safer than Water?" in which he says:

"I have travelled not a little in my lifetime, I have averaged nearly twenty thousand miles a year for twenty years at a time, I have been through the length and breadth of our land from Maine to California and from Minnesota to Florida. I have journeyed also in Europe and Asia and Africa. Yet I never found the place where it was necessary for me to drink wine or brandy, nor yet where I deemed a native wine as safe as the native water, judging from the apparent effects on those who used the one or the other.

"I have found some pretty poor water in my day, limestone water, brackish water, muddy water, sulphurous water, water well-nigh putrid with decaying vegetation. I have drank water through a little pocket filter, from the prints of my horse's hoofs in the travelled road after a rain-storm, as the only mode of quenching my thirst with water. I have drank water from the tangled swamps in the sea-islands of the South Carolina coast, when I had to hold my breath as I drank because of the water's stench. But I was sure, in all these cases, that water was safer, as a drink, than wine would be, and that if I added anything to it to render it innocuous there was less reason for my trying whiskey or brandy than ginger or mustard. Among all the personal risks that I have been called to take, in my life of varied experiences, I really count water-drinking the very least, and of all the personal risks I have had occasion to note in others, from my earliest recollection to the present hour, I put wine-drinking among the greater. . . . For myself I am afraid to venture on the moderate use of those drinks which have by their very use led so many to use them immoderately. I have seen that wine-drinking anywhere is dangerous. I have found that water-drinking is safer than wine-drinking for me, and that is my testimony on the wine question."

The editor and proprietor of the North American Review announces that the Review will be hereafter published at No. 30 Lafayette place, and will appear under its own imprint. He states that he has found it impossible to conduct the publication in the spirit of the motto adopted by its founders, making it a forum of independent thought, and extending, at his discretion, the hospitality of its pages to thinkers and scholars of all creeds and forms of belief, and at the same time to maintain relations with a publishing house having extensive school-book and other interests of its own to promote. This change of imprint will involve no alteration whatever in the organization of service of the Review.

Thurlow Weed, speaking of the death of George Law said, "I have often thought, that if three of the most successful business men of this country has ever produced—Commodore Vanderbilt, Dean Richmond, and George Law—were to undergo a competitive examination in these days of civil service reform as candidates for positions in the Custom-house or Post Office they could not get places as night watchmen in the Collector's office or letter-carriers in the postal service." Mr. Weed said he had in his possession letters from all three of those gentlemen, in which not a work containing three syllables was spelled correctly."

Lord Ellenborough showing some impatience at a barrister's speech, the gentleman paused and said: "Is it the pleasure of the Court that I should proceed with my statement?" "Pleasure, sir, has been out of the question for a long time; but you may proceed."

TWO LOVERS.

BY GEORGE ELIOT.

Two lovers by a moss-grown spring—
They leaned soft cheeks together there,
Mingled the dark and sunny hair,
And heard the wooing thrushes sing.
O, budding time!
O, love's blest prime!

Two wedded from the portal stept—
The bells made happy carollings,
The air was soft as fanning wings,
White petals on the pathway slept.
O, pure-eyed bride!
O, tender pride!

Two faces o'er a cradle bent—
Two hands above the head were locked;
Those pressed each other while they rocked;
Those watched a life that love had sent.
O, solemn hour!
O, hidden power!

Two parents by the evening fire—
The red light fell about their knees,
On heads that rose by slow degrees,
Like buds upon the lily spire.
O, patient life!
O, tender strife!

The two still sat together there,
The red light shone about their knees;
But all the heads, by slow degrees,
Had gone and left that lonely pair.
O, voyage fast!
O, vanished past!

The red light shone upon the floor,
And made the space between them wide,
They drew their chairs up side by side,
Their pale cheeks joined, and said "Once more!"
O, memories!
O, past that is!

MRS. LINCOLN.

LOW STATE OF HER EXCHEQUER DENIED.

A sensational article from New York purporting to give the facts about Mrs. Abraham Lincoln's financial circumstances seems to demand a denial from those conversant with the true state of the lady's accounts, inasmuch as the article is not correct in several particulars. The article in question avers that the $3,000 pension paid by Congress to Mrs. Lincoln is entirely inadequate to furnish her with the necessary means, implies that this is her only source of revenue, and that she is actually in want of funds to procure medical treatment and nurses. This statement, whether authorized by Mrs. Lincoln or not, is false, and in view of its utter falsity is an unnecessary cause of grief to her relatives. She is not in a state of impecuniosity by any means, and has not only an income greatly in excess of her need for her support, but has also a goodly store of spare funds, well invested, upon which to draw in case of an unexpected demand.

After Mr. Lincoln's death, Congress appropriated $75,000 to Mrs. Lincoln, part of which was used to pay her personal debts, of which she had contracted many in the East. She also disposed of some of her personal property and used the proceeds for the same purpose. In order to provide comfortably for her during life, an annual pension of $3,000 was settled upon her.

She had some real estate from which she had a fair income. This she sold to her son Robert. Last April the property was secured to him, besides the regular allowance paid her by the Government. She had, while in Europe, a private income of $8,000 per annum, part of which was derived from her Government bonds. She had invested in bonds $60,000, purchased with the Congressional appropriation, which she still possesses. Her return to this country was caused by the calling in of these bonds and for the purpose of reinvesting the money. The bonds being refunded at a lower rate of interest reduced her income from that source nearly one-third. Her total income is now computed to be over $5,000 per year. These facts are obtained from a reliable source, and can be trusted implicitly.

Since Mrs. Lincoln's return from Europe, about a year and a half ago, she has saved from her income $5,000, which she has also invested in interest-bearing bonds, thus increasing her revenue. As her health has been much better this year than last, it would seem improbable that her large income should fail to meet her expenses.

According to the New York report she needs the constant attendance of a physician and nurses. But this is not the case, if statements of her relatives in this city be true. When she left this city, two months ago, her excuse for going was that she ought to be under medical treatment in the hospital at St. Catherines, Canada. She was driven to the depot in a carriage, and was there seen by a newspaper correspondent. She did not appear greatly broken down in health, although she looked older than either her sisters. Her hair is quite white as might be expected. She walked about the depot and the cars without assistance. She was accustomed to walk about the house at the residence of her sister, Mrs. N. W. Edwards, before going away, and was not obliged to have support.

When President Garfield was shot, the news was heard by Mrs. Lincoln almost immediately. Her first impression was that of horror that a second man had been assassinated because of his prominent public position as the head of the Nation. She expressed great indignation at the fact that the President of the United States should be exposed to such attacks. After the first emotions had passed other thoughts filled the lady's brain, and she saw the position which she had long occupied as the wife of a martyred President would have a counterpart in that of Mrs. Garfield, and she became exceedingly jealous of that lady, and she was further exercised by the raising of the Garfield fund and the contributions to Mrs. Garfield. Mrs. Lincoln has long been desirous of urging upon Congress a bill to appropriate $100,000 to her, and these funds for Mrs. Garfield made the desire stronger. With a view of obtaining an increase of her pension, she went to New York and obtained the aid of Cyrus W. Field to bring her application out. Her ailments have been magnified on every possible occasion, and she brooded upon them constantly. She imagined the slightest indisposition as dangerous, and frequently insisted upon the attendance of a physician while in Springfield, against the judgment of the family, and even of the physician himself. He remarked so many visits were entirely unnecessary, and he hesitated about charging for them.

Mrs. Lincoln is known as an eccentric, and to have hobbies. When she was obliged to refund her bonds she thought she had suffered a great misfortune, and at times she has since believed that she was about to become poor because of it. That she is insane no one believes, but that her mind is not clear on all subjects is also understood. Her friends and relatives are deeply pained at the publication of a sensational rumor that has no foundation. She is well provided for and her relatives are amply able to take care of her should any misfortune come to her.—Springfield (Ill.) Correspondence Cincinnat Commercial.

AN OLD-FASHIONED SCHOOLMASTER.—Mr. Lamb taught and lived in the basement room which Mr. Arthur's family had occupied. To assist his table, he cultivated the spare ground of the lot west of the Academy. It was in potatoes and vegetables, among which onions, which he affected, were conspicuous. One afternoon in the fall he and a big boy (Horatio Loomis) went out and gathered the onions. The harvest ended, they returned. The teacher immediately sliced a number of onions and spread them upon the stove to roast. Very soon he picked up a roasted slice and offered it as a treat to the boy. Although it is over fifty years ago I laugh as I see the erect form and curled lip of young Loomis and hear his answer. "Roasted onion! No, thank you. I'd as leave eat a parched monkey."

Jonathan Lamb was a most ingenious, eccentric and excessive whipper. For instance, one day, to expedite business, he put George (Governor Van Ness's son) and self, together with one or two other little rats, as many as he could stick on, across his knees. Then, with each cut of a little rawhide, he whipped four at once. Such wholesale punishments were necessary under his system. Otherwise he might not have got through with his whippings. One of Mr. Lamb's favorite methods was to make a boy lie back down, on the floor. Then lifting the culprit by his arms and legs—the extremities of which he bunched for the purpose—he swung him, stern foremost, against the wall. When the boy had been thus sufficiently bumped, he was sent to his seat. When a large boy was to be thus dealt with he called on some big boy to assist. During the whipping process, he often stuffed his tongue well into his left cheek, seemingly to strengthen his efforts. Then the left eye was shut tight and the right eye severely opened. Tongue and eye being in line, punishment began. His appearance on such occasions was exceedingly ludicrous.

MEMORY IN CHESS-PLAYING.—Wonderful as are the feats of chess-players who can work out a game or a series of games without seeing the board, there is nothing really remarkable in them. When once mastered, the trick is not only fairly easy of performance, but the fact that the process is purely mental rather facilitates than impedes the action of the mind. To the "blindfolded" chess-player there is present a mental picture of the board with the pieces in position. He can change the position of the men as easily as he can think, and after he has once mastered the difficulty of fixing the mental picture it is distinctly before him. Some players, who do not in their common process of memory use picture phantoms, work out the moves as algebraical propositions are occasionally worked, by phantoms of sound; but, as a rule, chess-players are mental picture-readers, and can at pleasure call up any one of several pictures of boards as they last conceived them. The most difficult feat, and one which very few mental chess-players can accomplish, is to play two or three games simultaneously, the moves made by their opponents being told them in close sequence, and their own moves being directed after all the reports of the proceedings of their opponents have been received. Thus, if there be several players against the one mental player, he must be told and remember what each of his adversaries has done before he begins to give the instructions for his several counter-moves. In this exploit the most perfect development of the mental faculty of distinct picturing and the displacement and recall of mental pictures at will is exhibited. The prodigious difficulty of the feat can only be realized in the attempt to perform it. Even the expert blindfolded chess-player can rarely succeed in accomplishing the performance we have attempted to describe.—From the Lancet.

The Ideal. For singing classes and musical conventions. By L. O. Emerson. Price 75 cents.—Published by Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston. Mr. Emerson has just issued two music books. They are in many respects companion books, and have been compiled for choirs and singing classes respectively. THE HERALD OF PRAISE is the name of the Church music book, while THE IDEAL is the title of the new book for the singing class. The only difference between them is that THE IDEAL is considerably smaller and more convenient to handle, and contains those portions of the contents of THE HERALD OF PRAISE more particularly fitted for use in singing classes. The ability of the author of THE IDEAL is unquestioned, and when we consider his wonderfully large and varied experience with musical societies and conventions, and his success as a teacher and composer, we need not fear for the fate of this new book. There is, as usual, a practical "singing school course," together with Hymn tunes, Anthems, and Spiritual songs of the best quality, recreative pieces of a secular nature for practice, and a choice collection of miscellaneous music for social gatherings and concert singing. The music is new, interesting and entertaining, and has been selected from the best and most reliable sources, and will be sure to fill a very acceptable place in the work of the singing school for some time to come. Teachers should not fail to send for specimen copy at once.

When Cleave, the news vender, was tried in the English Court of Exchequer on a government information, he conducted his own case, and was treated with much indulgence by Lord Lyndhurst, the Judge. Cleave began his defence by observing that he was afraid he should, before he sat down, give some rather awkwark illustrations of the truth of the adage that "he who acts as his own counsel has a fool for his client." "Ah, Mr. Cleave," said his lordship, with great pleasantry, "ah, Mr. Cleave, don't you mind that adage; it was framed by the lawyers."

The Ex-Empress Eugenie is adding 18 rooms to her new residence at Farnborough. There is to be a room filled with the relics of Prince Louis Napoleon and fitted up exactly the same as the one occupied by him at Camden-place. The idea seems to have been taken from the dressing-room of the Prince Consort at Balmoral, which remains the same as when he was alive. His hat and gloves are on the table and an effigy of him is also in the room.

In a recent case Chief Justice Chapman observed that "experience is not sufficiently uniform to raise a presumption that one who has the means of paying a debt will actually pay it.—From Oddities of the Law by F. F. Heard.

WORDS FOR THE YOUNG.—Young friends, education is to you what polish and refinement is to the rude diamond. In its rude state, the diamond resembles a stone, or piece of charcoal; but when cut and manufactured, it comes out a bright and beautiful diamond, and is sold at a great price. So it is with you. Education calls forth the hidden treasures and latent brilliancies of your minds, which previously lie dormant and inactive, or, in other words, asleep. It cultivates and develops your understandings, and fits and prepares you for the duties and responsibilities of coming years, which, we trust will be years of usefulness—useful to yourselves to your associates, and society, at large. If so you must never misspend your time or opportunities. Endeavour to learn something new and useful every day. Add to your little store of knowledge day by day, and you will, in a few years, have a great bank of your own, on which you may draw in every emergency.

Remember that every little step is to that great elevation called science; and the more you study, the more you learn, and the wiser you grow, the greater will be your desire for knowledge.

Let me say to you, as one who is deeply interested in your common welfare, one who earnestly desires to see you become honored, useful, and happy—improve your minds by acquiring a good store of useful knowledge. Bear in mind, my young friends, that you are fast surmounting the busy stage of life; that the time is approaching when circumstances will call you forth into a busy and bustling world. You will then have to contend with the dangers and perils that such a world affords; you will have many obstacles and many pernicious influences to strive against; and unless your minds are well stored with useful knowledge, you will be unable to overcome those difficulties successfully.

TOBACCO AND HEALTH.—Dr. Hammond is not a person who is likely to be regarded as one ruled by womanish notions concerning any subject, but he has recently spoken with great distinctness of the deleterious effects of the use of tobacco, especially when smoked in the form of cigarettes and cigars. The opinion of such a man that tobacco is undermining the health of a majority of the boys of our city and also injuring a multitude of adults, must be regarded with much alarm in view of the report of collectors of internal revenue, showing a vast increase of tobacco manufacture in New York. There are 826,666,000 cigars and 229,800,000 cigarettes manufactured here in a year, and the growth of the industry is so rapid that the amount will probably be doubled within a few years. The increased manufacture implies a vastly increased consumption both in New York and throughout the nation. Statistics of the Internal Revenue Department show that the increase in the use of cigars and cigarettes has been prodigious in every part of the country. Dr. Hammond says the use of tobacco in that form is injurious even to adults, and to boys it is ruinous. The habit of smoking has become so prevalent among boys that it has reached the proportions of a national evil, and unless something is done to check it the next generation in the United States will be both mentally and physically weak. It may yet be necessary to pass laws prohibiting the use of tobacco by persons under 20 years of age.—New York Weekly Mail.

SNOW STREAMERS ON MOUNT DAVIDSON.—The peak of Mount Davidson last evening presented a most wild and wintry appearance. The snow streamers were abroad in all their glory. Last evening, however, they could hardy be called streamers. They were in reality an unending series of whirlwinds that chased each other along the crest of the mountain. These ... a thousand shapes in forming and vanishing. Being strongly lighted by the setting sun, the great surging columns looked like whirls of flame and illuminated smoke rolling up from a great fire. This brilliancy was seen in places where the rays of the sun passed through the thin mist of single snow-whirl; in places where three or four columns happened for a moment to fall in line between the spectator and the sun the whole was black as the smoke from the funnel of a steamboat. Frequently several of the colors of the rainbow would flash out around these dark columns, and a moment later all above the peak would be deep red, giving the top of the mountain the appearance of an active volcano. It would have been a fine opportunity for a scientist interested in the study of atmospheric currents. The motion of these snow-whirls show us what is always taking place in the air at the top of the mountain both winter and summer, and if on our mountain, doubtless on all mountains of like height. The straight current of the atmosphere is broken up into thousands of little whirlwinds that rise from 50 to 200 feet above the surface of the ground.—Virginia, Nev., Enterprise.

FRANK LESLIE'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE.—The January issue of this admirable monthly is, in all respects, a holiday number, and reflects great credit on the new editor, T. De Witt Talmage, D.D. It opens with a charming illustrated Christmas Carol, by R. H. Stoddard, followed by an illustrated article of much interest, "A Brief Chat About Christmas, "Cold Weather Talk," by W. C. Gray; "A Christmas Homily" and "Christmas and Epiphany Celebrations," etc., are timely and excellent articles. The "Reminiscences of an Old New Yorker" are continued; the delightful serial, "May Cunningham's Trial" is concluded, and two of deep interest commenced, entitled, "Margaret's Enemy," by the author of "Maid Marjory," etc., and "Prudence Winterburn," by Sarah Doudney. There are short stories, sketches, essays, poems, etc., by celebrated writers, and the Home Pulpit gives a sermon by Rev. Dr. Talmage, "The Manger." Among the many attractive features of the number, which abounds with entertaining, instructive and edifying reading, is No. 1, of "People I Have Met," by the Editor, introducing, with illustrations, William Cullen Bryant, Washington Irving, Peter Cooper, Daniel Webster and Dr. J. G. Holland. The price of a number is 25 cents; yearly subscribtions, $3, postpaid. Address, Frank Leslie, Publisher, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

At a spiritual seance at Shelbina, Mo., an editor was told that a departed friend desired to speak to him. The connection was made, and the friend proved to be a former editor who desired to say a few words. He said he desired to inform his old delinquent subscribers who had promised to bring in wood on subscriptions, that they needn't do it, as the management where he was furnished the fuel. He said they might send ice, however.

☞ A TRAVELER'S STORY.—After spending months at European and American watering places and thousands of dollars looking for health, I returned home disheartened and wretched. I had consulted the best physicians and traveled far and near without benefit, and expected to die. A friend urged a trial of Parker's Ginger Tonic. Three bottles and careful diet have worked wonders and brought me excellent health and spirits, and you may publish my experience for the benefit of similar sufferers—A Cincinnati lady.

—The assembling and the organization of Congress presented no unusual features. Mr. Keifer was elected speaker, thus placing the whole of Congress again in republican hands after an interruption of six years, during which the democrats controlled the house. The time consumed in organizing the house caused necessarily some delay, and led to the adjournment of the senate before the President's message could be received. The senate received some important bills, among them Mr. Sherman's, authorizing the Treasury to receive 300 millions of "lawful money" in $50 or multiples, the government allowing 3 per cent and employing the principal in redeeming the 3½ per cents. Lawful money includes silver, government notes and gold, and would make the 3 per cents payable in any of them. Two bills for the creation of a tariff commission were offered and both contemplate nine members, Mr. Morrill's bill appointing them all from civil life, while Mr. Garland's divides the commission in equal parts between the senate, the house and civil life.

The Presidents message was read in both Houses on Tuesday. It is a long and comprehensive document. The sad event which called him to the Presidential chair is appropriately mentioned. The relations between this country and foreign nations are spoken of as harmonious. He concurs in the recommendation of the Secretary of the Treasury that the coinage of silver be stopped and that silver certificates be called in. He reiterates the views on Civil Service stated by him in his letter accepting the nomination for Vice President, and suggests methods by which the present system of appointments and promotions may be improved. He recommends legislation touching the Mormon question, calls attention to the requirements of the Army and the Navy, commends the management of the Post Office Department, and offers suggestions for the civilization of the Indians.

—The election of General Keifer to the Speakership of the House of Representatives was obtained by the vote of Pennsylvania congressmen. Mr. Keifer had the advantage over his opponents in the fact that, in the tariff question he favors protection to the manufacturing and mineral interests of the county. His district in Ohio is one where the doctrine of Free Trade never had a stronghold, it being largely engaged in the manufacture of various implements. Springfield, where he resides, is a thriving manufacturing town, the larger proportion of its inhabitants being directly engaged in that business. As Pennsylvania is a stronghold of the Protective tariff adherents it did wisely in giving an almost unanimous support to General Keifer. The talk therefore about the election of General Keifer to the position being a victory for the Stalwarts we regard as rather weak, and we think that no such significance attaches to his election. General Keifer was a warm personal friend of General Garfield, whom he, to some degree, resembles, and was in full sympathy with his policy. He is and always has been a staunch Republican, in the broadest and truest sense of the term, and there is no danger but that he will contribute his influence in strengthening and upholding the entire Republican party and will steadily and firmly refuse to become the instrument of any leaders of faction.

—Three writs of capias were issued last Saturday, for the arrest of Stephen S Price, a well known merchant of Philadelphia, and one of the executors of the Price estate, the aggregate amount of bail required by Judge Biddle being over $90,000. It has been known for some time that Mr. Price was in financial difficulty. F. Chesley Richardson swore out three affidavits, the first declaring that on the 26th of May, 1879, he gave Price $5,000 in cash to invest for him in two mortgages of $2,500, which he failed to do, having pocketed and made away with the money. Mr. Richardson also declared that, acting as agent and broker of his brother Edward C. Richardson, now residing in Paris, at some time during the year 1879, he gave Price $20,000 for investment in mortgages, which sum Price also appropriated to his own use, although to keep up the deception from time to time he sent to Mr. Richardson in Paris sums of money equivalent to what would have been the interest upon a mortgage for the amount named. The third affidavit charges that in May or June, 1872, the sum of $50,000 belonging to Mrs. Anna P. Richardson, the mother of Mr. Chesley Richardson, was also given to Price, which he in like manner appropriated and has since spent. Mrs. Elizabeth Price, mother of Stephen S. Price, has given bail for her son. The old lady is blind, and when she signed away as security 150 acres of land on Germantown lane worth $1,500 per acre and a house and lot at 1422 Spruce street worth $85,000, she replied when asked if she knew what she was doing, "Yes, yes, I know. If my boy runs away, he runs away with all my property."

—Judge Davis, of New York, on Monday, sentenced Mrs. Elizabeth Coleman to the Penitentiary for four years.

—The Meyer-Ullman breach of promise trial has resulted in the finding of a verdict for the Plaintiff with damages assessed at over $1,000.

—Messrs. Fulkerson and Paul, the Virginia Readjusters voted with the Republicans in the organization of the House of Representatives last Monday.

—One of the witnesses for the defense in the Guiteau trial, Dr. James G. Kiernon, of Chicago, made the remarkable statement last Monday, on the witness stand, that probably out of twenty-five persons in ordinary life five are insane, and sooner or later they become inmates of insane asylums.

THE TARIFF CONVENTION.

Last week in New York city, a body of men came together to confer upon the great subject of the tariff, such as had never before been convened in the country. It was in fullest sense a national convention, representing nearly every State in the Union—in point of fact 32 of them—and comprised 705 delegates. A volunteer body, called from a private and obscure source, but representing a large number of the various industries of the country, and comprising in an unusual degree men whose names are national, of brains and influence. It was what it was intended to be, an industrial convention. It was in no sense a manufacturers' convention, as has been charged, mechanics, laborers, farmers, planters and wool growers, were all present in large force: they were invited, they were welcome, and they proved to be as good Protectionists as the manufacturers' who sat beside them. Comment will not add to the force of the great demonstration. Its record has been made; its influence will grow from day to day, and from year to year, and outlast the lives of those who took part in its proceedings. For the first time in the history of the United States, there is hearty and effective union, not merely between all branches of American manufactures, but in the truest sense between all branches of American industry. It is a great thing to see all these protected branches, consult and combine without jealousy, and with readiness to sacrifice any special temporary advantage for the advancement of the great common interest of all. It is a far greater thing to see labors and employers harmonizing and organizing together for the general good, as was done in this convention. The speech of Mr. Janett, an iron puddler, was most significant, because he spoke the heartfelt thought of those who labor for their daily pay, when he said, "The mass of the people—the workers of the United States, know what Protection means—it means fair wages, and fair wages for the American workingman means a happy home and a fair chance for advancement in education, property and standing among his fellow citizens." The result of the Convention was its unanimous voice, that the country has prosperous as never before under twenty years of Potection; that it would be in the highest degree unwise to alter a state of things that affords such conditions; that business changes and differences in growths and manufactures and transportation have produced inequalities and incongruities in the law in that long time, and therefore a careful revision is necessary, that this revision should be undertaken by experts, representing all the various forms of industry, familiar with their needs, and in no event should such revision be made to lessen the duties already on the statute book. There was some difference of opinion on the subject of internal taxation, which the convention was not ready or familiar enough with to pronounce upon, it really being a collateral subject to that which engrossed their attention, but an expression was had finally in favor of removing taxes from matches, medicines, clocks, etc., and reducing those on whiskey and tobacco. We append a sketch of the proceedings of this remarkable convention.

The proceedings were opened by a brief address from Colonel David F. Houston, the chairman of the executive committee who called the Convention to order and nominated Hon. George B. Loring, the Commissioner of Agriculture, as temporary chairman. Doctor Loring was unanimously elected, and upon taking the chair he delivered an able and judicious address, for which the Convention, on motion of the venerable Peter Cooper, tendered him its thanks. Subsequently a permanent organization was effected by the selection of Hon. Warner Miller, one of the United States Senators from New York, as permanent president, and a long list of vice presidents and secretaries. The chairman of the committee on permanent organization was Hon. Willard Warner, of Alabama. Senator Miller, upon relieving Doctor Loring, addressed the Convention in a well-timed and well-received speech. Following the address of Senator Miller a letter was read from Secretary Blaine, which elicited hearty applause. A committee on address and resolutions was appointed, of which Cyrus Elder, Esq., of Pennsylvania, was the chairman.

During the first day's daylight sessions addresses were delivered by Peter Cooper, John H. Ricketson, Esq., of Pittsburgh, Hon. William McKinley, Jr., of Ohio, and Mr. Stockton Bates, of Philadelphia. Hon. Joseph Sheldon, of New Haven, owing to the lateness of the hour, was granted leave to print an address which he had prepared for this session of the Convention. In the evening Hon. William D. Kelley, of Philadelphia, addressed the Convention in an elaborate plea for the abolition of the Internal Revenue system at the earliest praticable moment, for which the thanks of the Convention were tendered him upon motion of Governor Bullock, of Georgia. Judge Kelley was followed on the same subject by Mr. Gellatly, of New York, who was followed in a brief address by Hon. William Ward, of Pennsylvania, in favor of the revival of American shipping.

On the second day Mr. John Thompson, a New York banker, addressed the Convention on the benefits of Protection and the necessity of the complete remonetization of silver. He was followed by Joseph Wharton, of Philadelphia, the president of the Industrial League, in an elaborate argument favoring the submission of the whole question of a revision of the tariff to a commission to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. He was followed during the day by a large number of speakers, who delivered short and acceptable speeches on various phases of the tariff question. Colonel John Scriven, of Savannah, who had come at the head of the delegation from Georgia and South Carolina representing the rice interests, was invited to speak. He spoke of Protection, he said, "With the conscientious conviction of a convert. We of the South are proud of the glories of the enterpsise of you of the North. Despite defeat, despite humiliation, whether deserved or not, we join you in upholding the glories of our country." Colonel Scriven said that there was nothing in the result of the war for Southern men to regret. Their whole system of labor had been changed, but changed for the better, "and I as a Southern man am glad of it." As regarded the rice interest he could say that the product had increased under the new system and under Protection. Mr. Grinnell, of Iowa, represented the farming interests of the West, and announced himself as a Protectionist, as they wanted their produce consumed by the people of this country, and not by foreigners. He concluded by offering the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted.

"Resolved, That this Convention recognizes with especial satisfaction the awakening interest in national development in the Southern section of our common country, as witnessed by the Exhibition at Atlanta, Georgia, and we pledge to our brethern of that section our cordial support in maintaining for them that Protection to home industries under which the Northern States have so long prospered.

"Resolved, That we invite men of every political party and every section of the country to investigate the question of Protection to American industries as a purely business question, and to judge it by the results achieved during the existence of the present tariff."

These resolutions were seconded by Hon. Willard Warner, who announced himself as "an old Abolitionist"—Mr. Grinnell having previously applied to himself the same designation.

The report of the committee on resolutions was next presented by the chairman, Mr Elder, and pending its discussion the Convention took a recess until 8 o'clock. Upon reassembling Mr John Roach delivered an address on shipbuilding and the revival of American commerce, after which the report of the committee on resolutions was further discussed. The resolutions were amended by striking out (71 yeas to 28 nays) the last of the series, which was as follows

"Resolved, That the immediate and progressive reduction of internal taxes to the extent that the exigencies of the Government will permit, and their ultimate abolition, is in the line of a true financial and civil service reform, and we shall be glad when this unpleasant memorial and legacy of the civil war can be removed from our statute books."

The report of the committee was then adopted. A resolution was adopted providing for the appointment of a committee to present the action of the Convention to Congrass The chairman appointed the following committee

D. J. Morrell, of Pennsylvania, John Roach, of New York. J. B. Grinnell, of Iowa, R. W. Thompson, of Indiana, R. H. Bullock, of Georgia; C. H. Cramp, of Philadelphia; Charles Ridgely, of Illinois; Thomas H. Wells, of Ohio, Harris Lewis, of New York, G. C. Stevens, of Ohio, A. H. Jones, of Philadelphia; Wellington Smith, of Massachusetts; F. G. Kingsbury, of Connecticut; J. J. Hagerman, of Wisconsin, James Park, Jr., of Pennsylvania; Willard Warner, of Alabama; Gov. A. G. Littlefield, of Rhode Island; Ezra Rush, of Michigan; Columbus Delano, of Ohio; W. E. Gellatly, of New York, J. F. Henry, of New Jersey, John Jarrett, of Pennsylvania, and William Rogers, of Maine.

Final action on the resolutions was not taken until 11 o'clock, after which, with the usual vote of thanks to the officers, the Convention adjourned.

THE NEW DEPOT.

The following description of the new passenger station, its equipments and appointments, we condense from the Philadelphia Times:

The new station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, occupies the greater part of the two blocks of ground bounded by Market and Filbert and Sixteenth and Merrick streets, or Penn Square, but the passenger station proper extends only from the last named street to Fifteenth street It covers a space 122 feet 10 inches on Filbert street and 193 feet 5 inches on Merrick, its width corresponding with the portion of the tracks used for passenger service. The height from ground to eaves is 75 feet and to the roof top 93 feet. The lower story, or basement, is built of massive blocks of rough dressed Fox Island granite, with an open arcade upon the Merrick street front, supported on polished granite columns.

The main floor of the building is on a level with the elevated tracks, and the walls above the granite base are built entirely of smooth pressed brick and terra-cotta. A square clock tower, surmounted by a pyramidal roof, rises at the northeast angle to a height of 170 feet. The corresponding southern corner is terminated by a gable and pinnacles, and two smaller gables break the cornice line of the Merrick street facade, surmounting the alternate bays or divisions of the wall, which are marked on the main story by lofty pointed windows, with columns and tracery of elaborately moulded terra-cotta. These large windows light the waiting room and restaurant upon the front. Above these are two rows of smaller windows, and on the Filbert street front there are four stories between the basement and the roof. These mark the floors occupied by various offices.

Four stone-paved carriage-ways, separated by fluted iron pillars, with footwalks, on either side, pierce the middle of the lower story of the Merrick street front and extending under the building, open on Fifteenth street under the covered bridge. The space set apart for carriage-ways is flanked on the Filbert side by the main entrance to the depot and on the Market street side by the main exit. The monster doors of the entrance open into an apartment large enough to contain five hundred people. This is the ticket room and passengers who arrive in carriages can enter it from the side next the drives. Passengers will purchase their tickets at the half-circular office in the centre of the wall and can then ascend to the second story in one of the two elevators in the west end of the room.

On each side of the ticket office is a broad but short flight of stone steps leading to a marble platform as large as an ordinary room, and from there a short way twice as broad as the others mounts to the north end of the main waiting hall, which is larger than an ordinary ball room. It is 5[illegible] by 80 feet and 45 feet high. A wall running north and south in the second story and on a line with the east side of the stairway cuts off about one-third of the area of the floor. This space fronts on Merrick street and is divided into two magnificent rooms, that on the north being the ladies' waiting room and that on the south a dining-room. With the exception of the small space occupied by the two end towers, the ladies' room and the dining apartment extend along the entire front of the second story. Dressing rooms for both sexes, bath rooms, a barber shop and other offices fill up the corner block of space bounded by the dining room, the west end of the depot, the main waiting room and the stairs by which arriving passengers will leave the building. The means of exit are admirable, and as thirty men can walk abreast down the two short and straight flights of stairs that lead from the train platform to the street at the Merrick and Market street end of the building, no one will ever be inconvenienced by a crush. The kitchen, pantries and store rooms are in the third floor, which, like the fourth floor, does not extend over the main waiting room. The rooms in the fourth story are occupied entirely by officers of the railroad company.

The walls of the lower hall and of the stairways are lined with glazed bricks of various tints, white, buff, chocolate and light blue, but in the great hall and the other rooms upon the main floor the walls are wainscotted in oak, with carved panels, and above that plastered. The roof is seventy feet above the floor. It is of white fluted glass with sky ventilators. But to protect the room from the direct rays of the sun a ceiling of rolled and colored glass has been put in a little more than half way up. This ceiling is in sections that can be raised at will, and the light falling through it is pleasantly diffused throughout the room. Everywhere there is the finest of materials, the best of workmanship, and, above all, the best of taste and the most agreeable effects of color. The ceilings of the other rooms are paneled in oak and ash. The floors are of marble and the furniture all of oak and ash, heavily carved in Gothic designs. The light comes through windows of rich stained glass. There is a great open fire-place, with a chimney-piece of colored tiles, and around the room are high-backed seats, like choir stalls, that give the place a quaint, old-fashioned look very grateful to a tired traveler. And yet the "early English" is combined with the late American, for there is the best of ventilation, the most approved steam heating and the entire building is lighted by electricity.

POLITICAL TEMPERANCE REFORM!

EDITOR GAZETTE: Your review of my letter of last week calls for a recognition.

It is admitted that some of the elements contained in the Republican party have done and are doing for the temperance cause, but it is questionable if you can find one single voluntary act of the party as such in the direction of prohibition. It is true that the attention of most people in this country is engrossed by private aims and objects, but the sympathies of the greater part of them are at the same time enlisted in behalf of any movement to promote public morality or public welfare, and when the time arrives that their votes will help to secure the desired end they can be relied upon regardless of party ties. It is true that the old "Liberty party" did not have the united support of Abolitionists; but the reasons you assign for such lack of support are utterly fictitious and purely imaginary. The true and only reason they did not participate in political action was that Mr. Garrison and those who co-operated with him believed that the Constitution was committed to the support and protection of slavery, and that they could not consistently take political action under it. For twenty years this sentiment, couched in the unmistakable words, "The United States Constitution is a covenant with death and an agreement with hell," was the controlling motto of his paper, The Liberator, and governed every act and every expression of him and his coadjutors. Believing this they could do nothing else than resort to persistent and unceasing agitation until the term "Agitators" was applied to them in derision. There were others who did not accept Mr. Garrison's interpretation of the Constitution and who thought the proper method of combating slavery was through political action, and by them the Liberty party was organized. They had Mr. Garrison's sympathy, though not his co-operation.

You ask, What good did the Old Liberty Party do? Even Jeremiah S. Black, in his controversy with Hon. Robert G. Ingersoll, says of them, "The adherents of a POLITICAL faction in this country less than forty years ago. They did not constitute the civilized world, nor were they a very respectable portion of it; but politically they were successful." And Mr. Ingersoll says in reply, "Let it be remembered that this was only forty years ago; and yet, according to Mr. Black, a few disreputable men changed the ideas of nearly fifty millions of people; changed the Constitution of the United States liberated a race from slavery; clothed three millions of people with political rights; took possession of the Government; managed its affairs for more than twenty years, and have compelled the admiration of the civilized world." This, according to Mr. Black and Ingersoll, is what they did. How did they do it? Themselves the off-spring of the Garrisonian agitation, for ten years they made apparently fruitless efforts at political action under the name of Liberty party, and in the face of denunciation from the regular parties they organized in 1848 as the Free Soil party only to meet ignominious failures in the campaign of that year. The Democratic party was the avowed ally of slavery. The Whig party trying all the while to ignore the question till at last, compelled by aggression of the South and the hostility of the North, to define its position, it did so by the adoption of the Fugitive Slave Law and of a pro-slavery platform at the Convention of 1852, which proved its death warrant. The political Abolitionists, watchful for their opportunity, and even ready to change their methods to reach an end, abandoned the Free Soil and organized the Republican party, which, controlled by the same men, among whom were Giddings, Chase and Wilson, went rapidly along to the fulfillment of their twenty years work. It is impossible to say just what share of the result was due to any particular method of action. The experience of those interested in the suppression of the whiskey traffic is but a repetition or almost exact counterpart of the experience of those who fought and abolished slavery. Resisted by politicians of both parties as being a question that would give them trouble, hissed out of every convention, shut out of every caucus, the anti-slavery issue, persistently fought its way along to a final triumph, entirely disrupting one party and badly damaging the other. There were about 300,000 slaveholders interested in maintaining slavery, and it took seventy-eight years to abolish it There are 8,000 people engaged in the manufacture of liquor, and 176,000 engaged in selling it. Hence with the great increase of population and intelligence we can hardly expect the whiskey conflict to last so long.

You insist "that the temperance people shall work within the lines of Republican party, even though their party do not want them to do so." You insist, "that they shall go to the Republican primaries where all politicians begin to work for any measure they have at heart." Whether you have ever seen such an attempt made or not you know perfectly well that there is always an effectual measure found to suppress any such unwelcome interloper, and you know also that it is a rule of the party that he who participates in a primary meeting must support the nominations, rumsellers and all, or thereafter be excluded. You seem not to be satisfied with the evidences quoted that the Temperance movement has nothing to expect at the hands of the Republican party, and try to off-set them with the triumph of prohibition in Kansas as being a Republican movement. It is true that Kansas is a Republican State, but the amendment was procured by the personal effort of Governor St. John and a few others and not as a party measure, and the Republican party of the country have not only failed to render them any assistance but have notably given them the cold shoulder as being dangerous adventurers whose refractory independence is likely to give the party some trouble. You explain that the Republican manifesto in Wisconsin in favor of whiskey was because the temperance people failed to attend the primaries, and you exultingly remark that they have thereby placed themselves outside the organization when they could have achieved success. The fact is that they appealed to the Republican committee to take definite position in behalf of prohibition, and when they failed to do so the temperance people made their nomination and polled a vote of 13,000 against 100 two years ago. In Ohio the Republicans elect as Governor Charles Foster, of whom the Brewers and Liquor Dealers' Convention resolve as follows:

1. To support no candidate on either of the tickets who is not in full accord with the interests of the liquor trade.

2. They recommend the election of Charles Foster, as being in sympathy with their interests.

In New York city the canvass of a prominent Republican candidate for Congress is the subject of the following paragraph from a non-partisan paper

In the recent political campaign in this city W. W. Astor, who, though a Republican, as a member of the State Legislature has allied himself to the beer interest, was a candidate for Congress. If correctly reported, his late canvass for Congressional honor was one of the most corrupt and shameful ever known in our political history. He is reported as having gone in person, day after day, to the bar-rooms and breweries of his district, and to have dispensed money freely for the purchase of votes through base appeals to abnormal appetite for strong drink. The details are disgusting and shocking. It is a great satisfaction to announce that, by a large majority, he was elected to stay at home.

The Retailer, the organ of the liquor trade, asks why he felt obliged to make such a canvass, and answers, "It is because every liquor store is a club room."

In Maine the Republicans lost the election a year ago because they allied themselves to the rum interest. In Democratic Tennessee they have a law prohibiting the sale of liquor within four miles of any chartered school, and under Democratic administration it is being made very efficient.

In Republican Iowa it is almost impossible to get a conviction under their prohibitory law, and so in most any of Republican States it is impossible to find a Republican judge who will not place obstacles in the way of a conviction. In our own county that is said to be particularly the case.

You say "this State presents a striking illustration of the effect of going outside party lines in the attempt to secure the success of the temperance reform. No special temperance legislation of any importance has passed the Legislature since the campaign when an independent candidate was put up for Governor, particularly in opposition to the dominant party." It is true that this State presents a striking illustration that the controlling influence of the Republican party is ready to sustain any form of corruption or iniquity in order to retain possession of the spoils. They repealed the local option law as a bid for support of the whiskey influence. They pardon the legislature corruptionists for reasons best known to themselves. In Philadelphia it is found necessary to organize a vigilance committee of one hundred to keep them from stealing the city.

You ask "when the Republican party ceased to be a party of principles. Was it before the last Presidential campaign? If so how can the interest that was manifested in the questions at issue in that campaign be accounted for."

I answer that the last presidential campaign represented several very vital issues which would not have come to the front if the party managers had succeeded in making either of their contemplated nominations, but by unforseen circumstances the nomination was taken out of the hands of those who usually control it, and a man was named whose very honesty of purpose not only guaranteed the settlement of several questions dear to the people but secured his election by bringing out the great moral element of the country ordinarily allied to no party.

—The fair and festival held by the ladies of the Morrisville Presbyterian Church last week was well attended The amount realized was about two hundred and sixty dollars.

—On next Saturday the Hulmeville Manufacturing Company will sell its real estate to the highest bidder The factory has not been profitable to the stockholders, but its advantages to the borough were unquestioned.

—On last Saturday a tramp attempted to board a passing coal train near the Washington street crossing. He failed to gain a foot-hold and had three toes cut off by the wheel of the car he was attempting to get upon.

—The business of the Commercial Insurance Company of Bristol, has been transferred to the Niagara Fire Insurance Company, of New York. E. G. Harrison has been appointed agent to conduct the business here.

—Mrs Catherine Martin, widow of James Martin, died last Sunday morning, at her residence on Mill street, of paralysis. She was a woman highly esteemed in her extended circle of acquaintances, who sincerely mourn her sudden death.

—The Livingston Mills, which have for the past few weeks been stopped in order to place a new engine and the necessary new machinery for spinning yarns and manufacturing woven woolen goods, it is anticipated will resume work next Wednesday.

—Joseph T Naylor, one of the oldest, if not the oldest, resident of Bristol, died on Sunday from an attack of paralysis. He and his wife, who still survives him, lived happily together for over half a century, and it is a sad blow which separates the old couple.

—The America Hose, Hook & Ladder boys expect a jolly good time at their Fair, which commences on Monday, the 19th inst, and continues throughout the week. All the money they make, and we hope it will be a considerable sum, will be expended in furnishing their new house and putting necessary repairs to their fire apparatus.

—At the annual meeting of Bristol Lodge, No. 25, F. & A. M. on last Saturday evening, the following officers were elected I. S. Tomlinson, W. M., Frank C. Hoff, S W, Howard Pursell, J. W., William Kinsey, Treasurer; C. E. Scott, Secretary. The other officers of the Lodge are Josiah Smith, S. D, Harry C. Cornell, J. D.; Henry S. Stackhouse, S. M. C H. J. Shoemaker, J. M. C., James Lyndall, Pursuivant and Jacob McBrien, Tyler.

A Model trip

The Broad street station has ceased to be an object of horror. It has become a pleasant and a pleasing reality. Those who go to Philadelphia by rail from various points west of the Delaware, and especially those who go almost daily, will appreciate with real satisfaction this new and convenient terminus During the first two days there was more or less confusion It seemed unavoidable The manipulation of affairs would not work smoothly. Everything seemed sadly out of joint. Nothing acted in obedience to requirement Trains departing and arriving recklessly ignored a decent regard for the time tables These were practically abolished until the tangled skein of affairs could be put in order But on the third day discipline took the place of anarchy The 7.50 train from Bristol started away "on time" It sped swiftly past Schenk's and Eddington with a delightful indifference, and made no stop till it reached Cornwell's. In eighteen minutes it was taking on passengers at Holmesburg Junction. Nine minutes later it gracefully swept around the curve below Frankford. It halted at Germantown Junction in thirty-three minutes from the time of starting. In forty-two minutes it crossed the beautiful Schuylkill, and six minutes later it re-crossed the same tranquil stream In fifty-one minutes it was under the spacious shelter of the Broad street station, and the passengers stepped out as contentedly as though they had won a victory It was a model trip.

—Among the minor industries recently started in Bristol, none give more evidences of success than the green-houses of the DeWitt Brothers, on Pond street. They commenced operations here, about three years ago with a single green-house having about 500 feet of glass surface, to which they have added from time to time as their business increased, and they now have six green-houses having 15,000 feet of glass surface, thus making it thirty times larger than its original dimensions. Two of these green-houses were put up this year. Two of their houses are used exclusively for the culture of roses, the cut flowers and buds having a ready sale in Philadelphia, there having been sold by this enterprising firm as high as 4000 a week. In another house they have two miles of smilax, which sells at fifty cents a yard, another one is devoted to the raising of carnations, and still another to the culture of bovardias. The buildings are heated by steam, a mile of 4-inch iron pipe being used for the purpose of conveying the steam from three large boilers. The new house now being built will be filled with a variety of bedding plants for the spring trade. The care of this establishment takes the entire time of the four DeWitt brothers, and we are glad to see that they are building up a business that will prove remunerative to them.

—A motion has been made before Judges Allison, Peirce and Biddle, in Philadelphia Common Pleas, No. 1 to have the names of Joel M. Vanartsdalen and Wm. R. Dickerson struck from the roll of attorneys One day last week an officer visited these worthies in their quarters on the hill, to give them notice that the application had been made. Vanartsdalen, it was discovered, had become a cigar manufacturer, and being informed by the officer for what purpose he had come, he rejoined that he was very much obliged and felt that it was a great relief to be out of such company In making cigars he declared he was as happy as a lord Mr. Dickerson was not found in an equally cheerful frame of mind, and when spoken to by the officer, cynically remarked that most all lawyers were d——d rascals, and that there was hardly an honest man at the bar, thus showing by this remark that he was not much benefited by the occupation at which he was found engaged—copying out extracts from the bible.

A Nut for the Street Committee to Crack

EDITOR GAZETTE —Passing along by the Iron Foundry the other day I noticed a number of teams loading up the refuse cinders There is a considerable quantity, I should judge 200 loads On inquiry I learned that it had been secured by the Supervisor of Bristol township to mend the roads. On reading the report of Council proceedings, I have noticed that the Street Committee often reports a great difficulty in procuring materials for fixing our streets, and yet here is a large lot of the best possible material, been here for months available, which is carted out into the country. What is our Street Committee doing? Are they careless or incompetent, or both?

VIGILANT.

—The annual meeting of the Bristol Building Association was held on Monday evening last The Secretary's and Treasurer's report showed the whole amount of assets to be $80,675.78, the amount of loans and investments during the year $17,934.37, balance in treasury $341.41. The value of shares in the second series is $146 88, in the third, $109.33, in the fourth $86.95; and in the fifth, $52 57 The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year President, William Kinsey, Secretary, A. Weir Gilkeson; Treasurer, Charles E. Scott, Directors, William B. Baker, William Tabram, Frank N. Booz, John H. Chambers, Jonathan Milnor, James Wright and Charles S. Bailey.

—An attempt was made last night to break into St Mark's Church. Some boards were placed against the side of the building and one of the stained glass windows was broken For some reason the rascals, who are evidently novices in house-breaking, desisted from their efforts before entering the building. A reward of a hundred dollars is offered for the arrest and conviction of the offenders —List of letters remaining in the Bristol Post Office, Wednesday evening — Mrs. Wm. Arket, Jennie Beck, J. Boone, John Carter, L. Fiedler, Daniel Gallagher, Lente Gallagher, Sarah Herrity, F. Peet Jr.; and Charles Wright. Postals, Mrs. James S. Doran and James McMullan.

—There was a large audience at the entertainment given last night in the Methodist Church for the benefit of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society. The programme was a very attractive one, consisting of dialogues, recitations, vocal and instrumental music, readings and essays Everything passed off very successfully, and the audience seemed exceedingly pleased with what they had heard and seen. It would be invidious to make comparisons concerning the exercises when all performed their parts so well. The proceeds, clear of expenses, amounted to a little over thirty dollars.

TIMES

The Philadelphia Times

Now stands confessedly at the head of Philadelphia journalism in all that makes a thoroughly complete, general and family newspaper. It is more complete in its news in its special correspondence, in its varied contributions on all subjects of popular interest, and in all the qualities of a newspaper for the family circle and for the business man than any of its contemporaries, because its facilities and resources are equal to every want of a first-class national journal

"The Weekly Times" has nearly doubled its former large circulation during the past year. Its contributors from week to week are among the foremost men of the nation, and no department of news or literature is slighted in any number on any pretext. It is adapted as well to women as to men; hence, although its political intelligence is full and accurate and its political editorials free and fearless, liberal provision is made for literary, dramatic and musical matters, travels and adventure, fiction, poetry, fashions and the chronicle of current social events In all these departments the pens of the best writers are engaged, while selections from other journals are made with care, taste and fullness that are unsurpassed.

THE "ANNALS OF THE WAR"—chapters of unwritten history contributed by prominent actors in the war of the rebellion, are a valuable feature of the paper and have become a recognized depository of such matters, whether from Northern or Southern sources This department, as well as all others, will be kept fully up to the high standard of former years

A NEW PROCESS FOR PRESERVING ALL PERISHABLE ARTICLES, ANIMAL AND VEGETABLE, FROM FERMENTATION AND PUTREFACTION, RETAINING THEIR ODOR & FLAVOR

"OZONE—Purified air active state of oxygen"—WEBSTER.

This Preservative is not a liquid pickle, or any of the old and exploded processes, but is simply and purely OZONE, as produced and applied by an entirely new process Ozone is the antiseptic principle of every substance and possesses the power to preserve animal and vegetable structures from decay There is nothing on the face of the earth liable to decay or spoil which OZONE, the new Preservative will not preserve for all time in a perfectly fresh and palatable condition

The value of Ozone as a natural preservative has been known to our ablest chemists for years but until now no means of producing it in a practical, inexpensive and simple manner have been discovered Microscopic observations prove that decay is due to septic matter, or minute germs that develop and feed upon animal and vegetable structures Ozone applied by the Prentiss method seizes and destroys these germs at once, and thus preserves At our offices in Cincinnati can be seen a most every article that can be thought of preserved by this process and every visitor is welcome to come in taste smell, take away with him, and test in every way the merits of Ozone as a preservative We will also preserve free of charge, any article that is brought or sent prepaid to us, and return it to the sender, for him to keep and test

EGGS can be treated at a cost of less than one dollar a thousand dozen and be kept in an ordinary room for six months or more thoroughly preserved, the yolk held in its normal condition and the eggs as fresh and perfect as on the day they were treated, and will sell as strictly "choice." The advantage in preserving eggs is readily seen, there are seasons when they can be bought for 8 or 10 cts a dozen and by holding them can be sold for an advance of from one hundred to three hundred per cent One man with this method can preserve 5,000 dozen a day

FRUITS may be permitted to ripen in their native climate and can be transported to any part of the world, the juice expressed from fruits can be held for an indefinite period without fermentation—hence the great value of this process for producing a temperance beverage Milk and cider can be held perfectly sweet any length of time

VEGETABLES can be kept for an indefinite period in their natural condition retaining their odor and flavor treated at the original packages at a small expense All grain flour meal etc, are held in their normal condition

FRESH MEATS, such as beef mutton veal pork poultry, game fish etc, preserved by this method can be shipped to Europe subjected to atmospheric changes and return to this country in a state of perfect preservation

BUTTER, AFTER BEING TREATED BY THIS PROCESS WILL NOT BECOME RANCID.

Dead human bodies treated before decomposition sets in can be held in a natural condition for weeks without puncturing the skin or mutilating the body in any way Hence the great value of Ozone to undertakers

There is no change in the slightest particular in the appearance of any article thus preserved and no trace of any foreign or unnatural odor or taste

The process is so simple that a child can operate it as well and as successfully as a man There is no expensive apparatus or machinery required

A room filled with different articles such as eggs meat, fish etc, can be treated at one time without additional trouble or expense

☞ In fact there is nothing that Ozone will not preserve Think of everything you can that is liable to sour, decay or spoil and then remember that we guarantee that Ozone will preserve it in exactly the condition you want it for any length of time If you will remember this, it will save asking questions as to whether Ozone will preserve this or that article—it will preserve anything and everything you can think of

There is not a township in the United States in which a live man cannot make any amount of money, from $1,000 to $10,000 a year that he pleases We desire to get a live man interested in each county in the United States, in whose hands we can place this Preservative, and through him secure the business which every county ought to produce

A FORTUNE Awaits any man who secures Control of Ozone in any Town'p or Co.

A C Bowen Marion Ohio cleared $1,000 in two months $2 for a test package was his first investment Woods Brothers Columbus Warren Ohio made $3,000 on eggs purchased in July and sold November 1st $2 for a test package was their first investment

F K Raymond Morristown Belmont County Ohio is clearing $3,000 a month in handling and selling Ozone $2 for a test package was his first investment

D F Webber, Charlotte Eaton Co, Mich has cleared $1,000 a month since August $2 for a test package was his first investment

J B Gaylord 80 Lasalle St, Chicago is preserving eggs, fruit etc for the commission men of Chicago charging 1 per dozen for eggs and other articles in proportion He is preserving 5,000 dozen eggs a day, and his business is making $3,000 a month clear $2 for a test package was his first investment

The Cincinnati Feed Company 498 West Seventh Street, is making $5,000 a month in handling brewers malt preserving, and shipping it as feed to all parts of the country Malt unpreserved sours in twenty four hours Preserved by Ozone it keeps perfectly sweet for months

These are instances which we have asked the privilege of publishing There are scores of others Write to any of the above parties and get the evidence direct

Now to prove the absolute truth of everything we have said in this paper we propose to place in your hands the means of proving for yourself that we have not claimed half enough

To any person who doubts any of these statements and who is interested sufficient to make the trip we will pay all traveling and hotel expenses for a visit to this city if we fail to prove any statement that we have made

HOW TO SECURE A FORTUNE WITH OZONE

A test package of Ozone containing a sufficient quantity to preserve 1,000 dozen eggs or other articles in proportion will be sent to any applicant on receipt of $2 This package will enable the applicant to pursue any line of test and experiments to satisfy himself as to the extraordinary merit of Ozone as a Preservative After having thus satisfied himself and had time to look the field over to determine which he wishes to do in the future—whether to sell rights to others or to confine it to his own use or any other line of policy which he may adopt—we will contract with him for the right of his own township or county—we will enter into an arrangement with him that will make his fortune for him and give us good profits We will give exclusive township or county privileges to the first responsible applicant who orders a test package and desires to control the business in his locality The man who secures control of Ozone for any special territory will enjoy a monopoly which will surely enrich him

Don't let a day pass until you have ordered a test package and secured the exclusive privilege We assure you that delay may deprive you of it for the applications come in to us by scores every mail—many by telegraph First come first served is our rule

If you don't care to send money in advance for the test package, we will send it C. O. D. but this will put you to the expense of charges for return of money Our correspondence is very large we have all we can do to attend to the shipping of orders and giving attention to working agents Therefore we cannot give attention to letters which do not order Ozone If you think of any article that you are doubtful about Ozone preserving, remember we guarantee that it will preserve it, no matter what it is

REFERENCES: We beg to call your attention to the class of references which no enterprise or firm less than anything but the soundest business success and highest commercial merit could secure

We refer by permission as to our integrity and to the value of the Prentiss Preservative to the following gentlemen Edward C Boyce Member Board of Public Works Amor Smith, Jr Collector Internal Revenue Wilson & Worthington [illegible] and B F Hopkins County Commissioners [illegible] County Auditor all of Hamilton County Ohio These gentlemen are each familiar with the merits of our Preservative, and know from actual observation that we have without question

The Most Valuable Article in the World.

The $2 you invest in a test package will surely lead you to secure a township or county and then your way is absolutely clear to make from $2,000 to $10,000 a year

THE HOUSEHOLD.

ESCALLOPED PARSNIPS.—Mash one pint of boiled parsnips. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, a little pepper, two tablespoonfuls of cream or milk. Mix the ingredients. Stir on the fire until the mixture bubbles. Turn into a buttered dish, cover with crumbs, dot with butter, and brown in the oven.

CELERY MAYONNAISE.—Pare of the green leaves of two bunches of celery, cut in short pieces, wash well, drain in a cloth, put in a salad bowl, and add a well-seasoned mayonnaise dressing. Mingle well, and serve with roast duck. A good mayonnaise dressing.—Put the yolks of two eggs in a deep dish with a little salt and white pepper; into these stir briskly some olive oil, which must be added very gradually and alternated every little while with a few spoonfuls of vinegar. This dressing should have an agreeable flavor, and a rather stiff consistency. Salad oil should be kept well corked in a dry cool place, and always in the dark.

SPANISH CREAM.—Beat the yolks of three eggs with half a cup of granulated sugar; heat half ounce of isinglass in three pints of milk; when it is dissolved, and the milk risen to boiling point, stir them slowly into the yolks; boil once more and then stir in the frothed whites. Pour into moulds, and set away to cool. This is very good the second day after it is made.

BROILED SWEETBREADS.—Boil the sweetbread twenty minutes, then split it, season with salt and pepper, rub thickly with butter and sprinkle with flour. Boil over a rather quick fire, turning constantly. Cook about ten minutes and serve with cream sauce. Cream sauce.—One pint of cream, one generous tablespoonful of flour, salt and pepper to taste. Let the cream come to a boil. Have the flour mixed smooth with half a cupful of cold cream reserved from the pint, and stir it into the boiling cream. Add seasoning and boil three minutes. This sauce is good for delicate meats, fish and vegetables, and to pour around croquettes and baked and Quaker omelets.

MUTTON SOUP.—Boil a leg of mutton from two to three hours and season with salt, pepper, and about a tablespoonful of summer savory rubbed fine. Just before serving add noodles made in this way: beat one egg light, add a pinch of salt, and flour enough to make a stiff dough: roll out in a very thin sheet, dredge with flour to keep from sticking, then roll up tightly; begin at one end and shave down fine like cabbage for slaw.

COLD SLAW.—Take two-thirds of a cup of vinegar, one egg, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of salt, half teaspoon of mixed mustard, and butter size of a egg; stir until it boils. When cold, pour over the shaved cabbage.

FRIED OYSTERS.—Choose the largest and finest oysters you can get, take them carefully from the liquor and dry between two clean cloths. Prepare some beaten eggs, also some cracker rolled fine; and have ready hot butter in a frying-pan. Dip each oyster first into the egg, and then into the cracker, rolling it over until perfectly encrusted, the fry quickly to a light brown. Serve the moment they are done on a hot dish garnished with curled parsley.

It is awkward to be absent-minded. Forney's Progress tells a story of a Philadelphian who discovered this at his cost. It so happened the other day that the dining-room of the club which he frequents was quite full, when a man who chanced to know his particular failing came in very hungry. The waiter told the new-comer there was no room at present. Spying our absent-minded friend comfortably seated and reading a newspaper, a brilliant idea struck the hungry man. 'Has Mr. A. dined yet?' he questioned. 'No, sir,' replied the waiter. 'Well, never mind, take his bill to him and tell him he has had his dinner.' The waiter hesitated a moment, and then, appreciating the situation, went over to Mr. A. and handed him his bill. 'What is this for?' quoth the poor fellow. 'For your dinner, sir.' 'My dinner—ah! Have I really had it?' 'Yes, sir,' rejoined the waiter in all innocence. 'Dear me, I had an idea I was waiting for it. What a curious mistake.' And with a contemplative smile Mr. A. sauntered out of the room, leaving his table for the use of the genius who had profited by his absent-mindedness.

As an exhibition of the intrinsic worth of St. Jacobs Oil, we think the case referred to, that of Mrs. O. W. Hubbard, of this town, cured of Sciatic Rheumatism of long standing by the Oil, is certainly striking, and, beyond all doubt, conclusive as to its efficiency. The remedy has our indorsement.

A genuine African, claiming to be Dr Delancy of the Mundingo tribe, presented himself to the health office in Washington the other morning for the purpose of registering as a practising physician. He had what pretended to be a diploma as an herb doctor, written in English on elephant skin, dated at Sierra Leone in 1806, and claims to have been born in 1780, which would make him 101 years old. He stated that his father, who is king of his tribe, is still living. He also claims to have been with Dr. Livingston for four years. His credentials were not satisfactory, and he could not register.

The train had run into a snowdrift and the engine was butting its head in vain against a six-foot bank. "For once the iron horse appears to be beaten," remarked a fat woman in a second-class carriage. "You shouldn't call it an iron horse," mildly reproved a solemn-faced man. "Why not?" asked the fat woman in some surprise. "Because it's block tin," softly murmured the solemn-faced man, as he gazed out of the window and across the wintry waste with a far-away look in his eye.

Here we have an Oyster. It is going to a Church Fair. When it gets to the Fair it will Swim around in a big Kettle of Warm Water. A Lady will Stir it with a Spoon, and Sell the Warm Water for Two Bits a pint. Then the Oyster will move on to the next Fair. In this Way the Oyster will visit all the Church Fairs in town, and Bring a great many round Dollars into the Treasury. The Oyster goes a great Way in a Good Cause.

Health & Beauty.

Read and you will not regret.

The renowned beauty, Ninon de l'Enclos, astonished the world by retaining the wonderful clearness and brilliancy of mind and complexion throughout her life. At the age of 95 her skin was as soft, blooming and fresh, as a girl of 15. (The secret was the discovery of the famous sage and chemist, l'Abbe d'Effiat.) At her demise she bequeathed this most valuable secret to a physician, who supplied it to the court celebrities only. At the downfall of the empire it came in possession of a celebrated American physician, who has been eminently successful in the treatment of Blood and Skin diseases; and that the public generally may enjoy the benefits of this marvelous preparation, the Doctor has placed the recipe with the Bell Mann Co. of New York, who are prepared to supply the demands of the thousands of eager applicants. THE

CENTURY MAGAZINE, (SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY,) FOR THE COMING YEAR.

With the November number began the new series under the title of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE, which will be, in fact, a new, enlarged, and improved "SCRIBNER." The page is somewhat longer and wider, admitting pictures of a larger size, and increasing the reading matter about

Fourteen Additional Pages.

The following is a summary of the leading features of the new series for the year:

A NEW NOVEL BY MRS. BURNETT (author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," etc.), entitled "Through One Administration," a story of Washington life.

STUDIES OF THE LOUISIANA CREOLES. By George W. Cable, author of "The Grandissimes," etc. A series of illuserated papers, on the traditions and romance of Creole life in Louisiana.

A NOVEL BY W. D. HOWELLS (author of "A Chance Acquaintance," etc), dealing with characteristic features of American life.

ANCIENT AND MODERN SCULPTURE. "A HISTORY OF ANCIENT SCULPTURE," by Mrs. Lucy M. Mitchell, to contain the finest series of engravings yet published of the masterpieces of sculpture. There will also be papers on "Living English Sculptors," and on the "Younger Sculptors of America," fully illustrated.

THE OPERA IN NEW YORK, by Richard Grant White. A popular and valuable series, to be illustrated with wonderful completeness and beauty.

ARCHITECTURE AND DECORATION IN AMERICA will be treated in a way to interest both householder and housewife; with many practical as well as beautiful illustrations from recent designs.

REPRESENTATIVE MEN AND WOMEN OF THE 19TH CENTURY. Biographical sketches, accompanied by portraits of George Eliot, Robert Browning, Rev. Frederick W. Robertson (by the late Dean Stanley), Matthew Arnold, Christina Rossetti, and Cardinal Newman, and of the younger American authors, Wm. D. Howells, Henry James, Jr., and George W. Cable.

SCENES OF THACKERAY'S, HAWTHORNE'S, AND GEORGE ELIOT'S NOVELS. Succeeding the illustrated series on the scenes of Dickens' novels,

THE REFORM OF THE CIVIL SERVICE. Arrangements have been made for a series of able papers on this pressing political question.

POETRY AND POETS IN AMERICA. There will be studies of Longfellow, Whittier, Emerson, Lowell, and others, by E. C. Stedman.

STORIES, SKETCHES, AND ESSAYS may be expected from Charles Dudley Warner, W. D. Howels, "Mark Twain," Edward Eggleston, Henry James, Jr., John Muir, Miss Gordon Cumming "H. H.," George W. Cable, Joel Chandler Harris, A. C. Redwood, F. D. Millet, Noah Brooks, Frank R. Stockton, Constance F. Woolson, H. H. Boyesen, Albert Stickney, Washington Gladden, John Burroughs, Parke Godwin, Tommaso Salvini, Henry King, Ernest Ingersoll, E. L. Godkin, E. B. Washburne, and many others.

One or two papers on "The Adventures of the Tile Club," and an original Life of Bewick, the engraver, by Austin Dobson, are among other features to be later announced.

THE EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT throughout will be unusually complete, and "The World's Work" will be considerably enlarged.

The price of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE will remain at $4 00 per year (35 cents a number). The portrait (size 21x27) of the late Dr. Holland, issued just before his death, photographed from a life-size drawing by Wyatt Eaton, will possess a new interest to the readers of this magazine. It is offered at $5 retail, or together with THE CENTURY MAGAZINE for $6.50. Subscriptions taken the by the publishers, and by book sellers and newsdealers everywhere.

We Are Increasing Our Sales All The Time.

AND WHY?

BECAUSE—Our goods are always found as we represent them.

BECAUSE—Consumers have come to the conclusion they might as well have the best they can get, when they have to pay no more for it.

We are getting new coal and flour and feed customers every day or so.

Come examine our stock and give us a trial and satisfy yourselves.

THE INDEPENDENT

"The foremost religious newspaper of the United States."—REV. JOSEPH COOK.

Established in 1848 as an advocate of anti-slavery and of reforms in religion and politics, the INDEPENDENT at once became a recognized power throughout the country. Its influence has ever since been constantly growing. As it has fought against slavery and for cheap postage, so it will fight against Mormonism, for Civil-Service Reform, and for purity in politics, and general uprightness in all things. It employs the best editorial talent and speaks fearlessly on all subjects. It pays for contributed articles and for editorial services more than double the amount paid by any other weekly newspaper.

It publishes more religious discussions than the religious reviews, more poetry and stories than the popular monthlies, and gives more information than an annual cyclopædia. The long cable dispatches recently published from the great Methodist Council in London are a good illustration of what the INDEPENDENT is constantly doing. A list of the most prominent religious and philosophical writers, poets, and story writers in the country is the list of the contributors of the INDEPENDENT. Besides the space set aside for these writers and for editorials, there are twenty two distinct departments, edited by twenty-two specialists, which include Biblical Research, Sanitary, Legal, Fine Arts, Music, Science, Pebbles, Personalities, Ministerial Register, Hymn Notes, School and College, Literature, Religious Intelligence, Missions, Sunday school, News of the Week, Finance, Commerce, Insurance, Stories, Puzzles and Agriculture. 32 Pages in all

OUR NEW TERMS FOR 1882:

|---|---|
| One subscription one year | $3 00 |
| For 6 months, $1 50, for 3 months | 0 75 |
| One Subscription 2 years | 5 00 |
| One subscription with one new subscriber, in one remittance | 5 0 |
| One subscription with two new subscribers, in one remittance | 7 00 |
| One subscription with 3 new subscribers, in one remittance | 8 50 |
| One subscription with 4 new subscribers, in one remittance | 10 00 |
| One subscription five years | 10 00 |

Any number over five at the same rate, invariably with one remittance.

These reduced prices ($2 per annum in clubs of five or more) are much lower than any of the standard religious weeklies.

Subscribe with your friends and get the low rate. We offer no premiums.

Contrary to the custom of all the religious newspapers, the INDEPENDENT will hereafter be stopped at the end of the time for which payment is made.

Send postal card for free specimen copy and judge for yourself. Address.

DIRECTIONS.

For Catarrh, Hay Fever, Cold in the Head, &c., insert with little finger, a particle of the Balm into the nostrils, draw strong breaths through the nose. It will be absorbed, cleansing and healing the diseased membrane.

Deafness

Apply a particle into the ear.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

HAVING gained an enviable reputation, displacing all other preparations in the vicinity of discovery, is, on its merits alone, recognized as a wonderful remedy wherever known. A fair trial will convince the most skeptical of its curative powers. It effectually cleanses the nasal passages of Catarrhal virus, causing healthy secretions, allays inflammation and irritation, protects the membranal linings of the head from additional colds, completely heals the sores and restores the sense of taste and smell. Beneficial results are realized by a few applications. A thorough treatment as directed will cure Catarrh. As a household remedy for cold in the head it is unequaled. The Balm is easy to use and agreeable. Sold by druggists at 50 cents. On receipt of 50 cents, will mail a package free. Send for circular, with full information.
